Welcome to the Job Resource Centre Staff Housing Guide

Purpose of the Project

The Staff Housing Guide is an inventory of employers in the Bow Valley who offer accommodation to entry-level employees.

Many newcomers to this area are looking for work as well as a place to live. The guide informs job seekers about staff housing availability, types and quality.

This guide was produced by the Job Resource Centre with the financial contribution from the Government of Alberta.

Structure of the Guide

This guide is organized by the four major communities in the Bow Valley: Banff, Canmore, Lake Louise, and Kananaskis, as well as alphabetically by employer.

The description of accommodation for each employer begins with demographics and staff numbers. This data is subject to change and reflects the staff information collected during the spring of 2019.

The accommodation offered is also subject to change and could be limited during peak seasons when employers have fewer available rooms. Peak season might also affect other options such as choice of roommates or couple accommodation.

Evaluation Process

This project connected with most tourism and hospitality employers from Kananaskis to Lake Louise, including the towns of Canmore and Banff.

Each employer in this guide was invited to participate in the following three components:

Employer Survey

Employers were asked to complete a survey. The purpose was to describe the accommodation, including the number of residents who share amenities, furniture provided, and perks offered. They also included their current demographics data and staff numbers.

Employee Survey (optional)

Many employers also chose to include an employee evaluation of their accommodation. The ratings were compiled from the employee survey results that were given to staff currently living in accommodation. They were rated on the security, quality of personal space, maintenance and cleanliness, social conditions, and the overall assessment of their staff housing.

On-site Review (optional)

Finally, there was an on-site visit by the Staff Housing Guide team to verify the data collected in the surveys and provide their own ratings.

Employee Rating

The employee ratings section was compiled using data collected from the employee surveys, on-site reviews, or both.

The averages from all the data create the star ratings, rounded to the nearest 0.5. Our assessment results have the same weight as the employees' input.

Living in the Bow Valley

This Guide acknowledges the traditional territories of the people of the Treaty 7 region in Southern Alberta. Treaty 7 encompasses the traditional territories of numerous First Nations as well as the Métis people who have called this area home since time immemorial. Treaty 7 First Nations includes the Stoney Nakoda (including the Chiniki, Bearspaw, and Wesley First Nations), the Blackfoot Confederacy (comprising the Siksika, Piikani, and Kainai First Nations), as well as the Tsuut'ina First Nation. This area is also home to Métis Nation of Alberta, Region III.

The Bow Valley is a beautiful place to call home. With the Canadian Rockies in your backyard, adventure is seemingly endless. These mountains have attracted millions of people to the area since Banff National Park was established in 1885.

There is plenty to do in the winter including skiing and snowboarding, ice climbing, ice fishing, aurora watching and cross-country skiing. But the Summers are considered peak season for hiking, biking, climbing, paddling and many local events.

There is also a vibrant arts scene in the Rockies. Galleries, art centres, markets, and public spaces host works from local and international artists. Canadian musicians often stop through to play the bars, coffee shops, and stages at the Banff Centre.

For a region with such a small population of only around 23,000, the Bow Valley is home to workers from all over the world. Many people come with working holiday visas and stay for some time. Canadians from across the country also find their way west to experience the beauty and lifestyle of the Rockies.

What to Expect

The cost of living is generally higher than in other Alberta communities.

Average rental rates	Banff	Canmore
1 bedroom	$1,528	$1,422
2 bedroom	$1,995	$1,767
3 bedroom	$2,500	$2,250
Studio/Bachelor	$1,104	$946
Roommate/Shared	$859	$856

According to the Job Resource Centre's Labour Market Review for Spring 2019

Based on the data collected for this Staff Housing Guide in Spring of 2019, the average rent cost in staff housing was about $437.50/month. The average rent cost in Banff was $475/month, for Canmore it was $530/month, for Lake Louise it was $395/month and Kananaskis was $350/month.

The types of rooms offered vary, but in Banff the most common type of bedroom is shared-bedroom style. About 45% of the Banff bedrooms we reviewed for this project have two or more beds. In Canmore, approximately 46% of the bedrooms we reviewed were semi-private, but residents shared amenities like kitchens and bathrooms.

Generally, staff accommodation is a cost-effective way to live in the Bow Valley.

Please note, all details including costs and prices in this guide were correct Spring 2019. Please contact employers directly for current details including staff housing costs.

Short Term Accommodation

While looking for a job and/or housing, here are a couple of options for short term accommodation.

Tenant Rights & Responsibilities

There are some common rules and regulations that apply to all landlords and tenants in Alberta.

The links below contain useful tips and info about:

- Moving in and out
- Substantial breach by tenants and/or landlords
- Proper notice to end a periodic tenancy
- Security deposits
- Eviction
- A checklist for tenants to better understand what they need to know before they move into their new home (last page of handbook)

<http://www.landlordandtenant.org/resources/>

http://www.servicealberta.gov.ab.ca/pdf/tipsheets/Information_for_tenants.pdf

Residential Tenancies Act Handbook

The Residential Tenancies Act (RTA) was written to create a rental housing system that protects tenants and landlords and promotes investment in Alberta's rental housing market. A shortened handbook defining the rules and regulations can be viewed here:

http://www.servicealberta.gov.ab.ca/pdf/RTA/RTA_Handbook.pdf

For more information on the Residential Tenancy Act, call the Consumer Contact Centre toll free in Alberta at 1.877.427.4088.

Section 10 and 11 (of the Residential Tenancy Act) – Termination of Employee Tenants

Periodic Tenancy

A landlord or tenant may end a periodic tenancy with notice if the employment of the tenant is terminated. The Notice (as set out in s. 10) must:

1. Be in writing,
2. Identify the residential premises,
3. Be signed by the party giving the notice,
4. State the reasons for the termination of the tenancy, and
5. State the date that the tenancy will terminate.

How much notice must be given to terminate the tenancy of an employee tenant?

Answer: The amount of notice a landlord or tenant must give to terminate the tenancy has to be the longest of:

- The amount of notice that is required by law to terminate the tenant's employment,
- The amount of notice to terminate the employment that has been agreed to by the landlord and the tenant or

- One week.

Residential Tenancies Act and Staff Housing

If the landlord is terminating the tenancy because of significant damage, assault, or threats of assault, the landlord can apply to the court or to the Residential Tenancy Dispute Resolution Service (RTDRS) for an order terminating the tenancy or the landlord can serve the tenant with a notice to terminate at least 24 hours before the termination date and time.

The Residential Tenancy Dispute Resolution Service

When there are issues between tenants and landlords that require mediation, the RTDRS is a fast, inexpensive, less-formal way to settle disputes. Contact for this service: 310.0000, then call: 780.644.3000 (toll-free).

Index of Housing Preferences

This index is a list of the employers who offer the following housing options:

- Employers that offer private bedrooms (with private or shared amenities)
- Couple-friendly (if both partners work for the same employer)
- Couple-friendly (if the other partner is employed elsewhere)
- Ability to choose your roommate
- Lots of storage
- Allows overnight guests
- Child-friendly
- Under 18 years old may be accommodated
- Pet-friendly

Some employers have multiple staff accommodations. If they are included in this list, then at least one of their properties offers these options. In peak season, the number of available rooms may be limited, and this could affect what an employer can accommodate.

Special thanks to the Government of Alberta for their financial contribution.

Special thanks to all of the employers and employees who gave their time generously to participate in this project.

Finally, thanks to the staff at the Canmore and Banff Job Resource Centre for their help and flexibility.

Banff

In 1985, 100 years after its establishment, Banff National Park was declared a UNESCO World Heritage Site by the United Nations. Nestled in this park is the town of Banff. Many of Canada's best-known outdoor athletes, adventurers, landscape photographers, and writers live in Banff, and the community is vibrant and rich with their stories and creativity.

In 1883, a couple of Canadian Pacific Railway workers stumbled upon some natural hot springs on the side of a mountain. Two years later, the Canadian government protected the area around the pools. This was the birthplace of Canada's national park system.

Banff National Park is 6,500 square kilometres of protected land in the Rockies with a wide range of activities available from white-water rafting to horseback riding, skiing, hiking, mountain biking, fishing, and more. While the mountains are vast, Banff itself is very concentrated. On Banff Avenue, the main street, boutiques and restaurants mix with hotels and souvenir shops, nightclubs, and cafés. Bear Street features the town movie theatre, summer street market, restaurants and bars. During the summer season, Central Park plays host to the Banff farmer's market. Within blocks of downtown, the public library and a number of well-loved museums are home to Banff's colourful mountain history, and hubs for cultural activities and exhibitions.

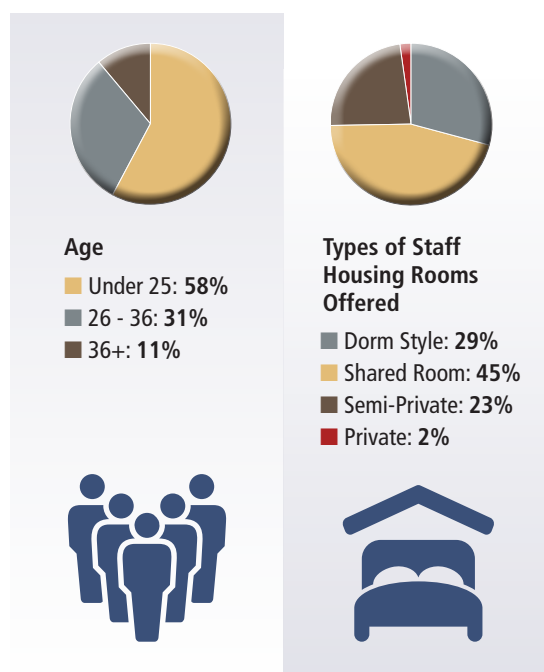

Tourism and hospitality, as an industry, is the economic engine of this area. Banff has approximately 9,400 full and part-time residents but many more people live in town in the summer. There's a 'need to reside' clause that states all residents must own a business or work in Banff in order to reside and this rule has helped create a thriving community in the tiny mountain town.

- At 4,537 feet, 1,383 metres, Banff is the town with the highest elevation in Canada.
- Banff National Park welcomes between 3 and 4 million visitors every year.
- 9 out of 10 of employed residents work within the town of Banff.
- Many residents have more than one job.
- 61% of homes are occupied by renters.
- Banff is very walkable, 45% of people walk to work. Based on the data we collected for this project, the average time to walk to work from staff accommodation is about 8 minutes and the average walk to downtown is about 10 minutes.
- Roam Transit is a bus system within Banff and also operates a daily commuter bus service between Banff and neighbouring Canmore and Lake Louise (about a half hour drive).

- By car from Banff, Calgary is about 125 km, Lake Louise is about 60 km, and Canmore is about 25 km.
- Summer is the busiest season, followed by winter. Spring and fall are considered "shoulder seasons." Job opportunities are plentiful in the spring leading up to the summer season.
- Fall can be a slower time of year for employment as many visitors are awaiting the start of the ski season.

According to the data we gathered from participating Banff employers, the average age of employees in staff housing in Banff is:

Canmore

At 14,000 permanent and 3,900 non-permanent residents, Canmore is now the largest community in the Alberta Rockies. Its proximity to Calgary – only a one-hour drive away – has made it a popular destination for regional visitors looking for a weekend getaway, as well as an accessible home base for adventure in the Rockies for international tourists.

The town was established along the railway line as a coal mining town in 1884 and thrived on the industry until the coal mines closed in 1979. The Nordic events of the 1988 Olympics were held in Canmore, showcasing the town internationally as an outdoor mountain-lifestyle destination, and kick-starting the tourism and health and wellness industries. Canmore is now well-known for mountain biking, skiing, and snowboarding, Nordic skiing, climbing, running, hiking, and other self-propelled outdoor adventures.

There are four main business centres in town: Main Street, the cultural hub which features retail shops, art galleries, cafés, and restaurants; Railway Ave, where you will mostly find grocery stores, Elevation Place (the popular recreation centre), banks, and home furnishings; Elk Run Industrial Park, the town's manufacturing hub; and Bow Valley Trail, where most of the town's hotels and chain restaurants are located.

Tourism is the most prominent driver of the economy in Canmore. Most entry-level employment opportunities are in the tourism and hospitality or health and wellness industries.

- By car from Canmore, Calgary is about 100 km, Lake Louise is about 85 km, and Banff is about 25 km.
- 50% of employed residents work within the town of Canmore.
- Many residents have more than one job.
- 30% of homes are occupied by renters.
- Canmore is more expansive than Banff. Based on the data we collected for this project, the average time to walk to work from staff accommodation is about 17 minutes and the average walk to downtown is about 15 minutes.
- Roam Transit operates a daily commuter bus service between Canmore and neighbouring Banff (about a half hour drive), as well as local bus services within Canmore.

Lake Louise

The blue-green waters of Lake Louise and neighbouring Moraine Lake are emblematic of the pristine mountain landscapes for which the Canadian Rockies are known. The iconic views bring millions of visitors a year to the tiny hamlet of Lake Louise.

The establishment formed along the railway in the late 1800s and has become an internationally renowned mountain mecca, offering a tremendous range of recreational and sightseeing opportunities for visitors including cross country skiers, hikers, mountaineers, and climbers. The Fairmont Chateau Lake Louise – the area’s original hub for tourism – was built in 1913 and made the grandeur of Lake Louise accessible to those visitors less inclined towards mountaineering and outdoor adventure.

The hamlet of Lake Louise is separated into two communities. The main community, known as The Village, is located just off of the Trans-Canada Highway. It has a small shopping centre that includes a grocery store, bakery, bar, restaurants, and a clothing and sporting goods store. There’s also a recreation centre that offers tennis courts, a baseball diamond, and a new arena. The second community is at a higher elevation and is centered around the Chateau Lake Louise, directly adjacent to Lake Louise.

Employment is likely to be found in hotels, restaurants and retail, and at Lake Louise Ski Resort, one of Canada’s premier ski areas, about 5 km from The Village across the Trans-Canada Highway.

- Lake Louise has approximately 1,200 residents.
- Lake Louise is situated within Banff National Park which welcomes between 3 and 4 million visitors every year.
- By car from Lake Louise, Calgary is about 185 km, Banff is about 60 km, and Canmore is about 85 km.
- Roam bus provides daily bus transportation to Banff from Lake Louise.
- The Village is very walkable. Based on the data we collected for this project, the average time to walk to work from staff accommodation is about 9 minutes and the average walk to downtown is about 11 minutes.
- The distance from The Village to Chateau Lake Louise is 4 km (uphill).
- It’s a remote community and many staff find that owning a car is helpful and handy.
- The most common mode of transportation for staff is walking or taking a taxi.
- All employers in Lake Louise provide staff accommodation.

According to the data we gathered from participating Lake Louise employers, the average age of employees in staff housing in Lake Louise is:

Kananaskis

Kananaskis Country encompasses more than 4,000 square kilometres of wildlands on the eastern slopes of the Canadian Rockies and is an ideal base from which to explore some of its renowned sights. In comparison to Banff or Canmore, living in Kananaskis Village will feel remote, as it has a population of roughly 250 people, almost all of whom are staff at one of the local hotels, ski hill, Alberta Parks campgrounds, or other businesses.

The basics needed to live in Kananaskis are available in the Village. However, it is common for staff to drive into Canmore or Calgary once a week to do major shopping as the grocery store in the Village is quite minimal. Recreational facilities include basketball courts, tennis courts, a baseball diamond, a pub, a convenience store, a post office, and an outdoor adventure shop.

The crowds are not as abundant in Kananaskis as in Banff, but it's not due to a lack of spectacular scenery or opportunity for backcountry travel. Kananaskis has epic hiking, paddling, biking, horseback riding, white-water rafting, skiing, snowshoeing, and fishing.

The community in Kananaskis Village is close-knit and you can look forward to live music, barbecues, and other ongoing staff events.

- It's a remote community and many staff find that owning a car is helpful and handy.
- By car from Kananaskis Village, Calgary is about 100 km, Canmore is about 55 km, and Banff is about 80 km.
- Nearly all of the housing available in Kananaskis Village is staff housing.
- The total area of Kananaskis Country is 4,000 square kilometres and the population density is only 0.1 persons/km².
- Based on the data we collected for this project, the average time to walk to work from staff accommodation is about 4 minutes and the average walk to downtown is about 5 minutes.

According to the data we gathered from participating Kananaskis employers, the average age of employees in staff housing in Kananaskis is:

- 36+: 12%
